In pursuit of our mission to be the best provider of kitchens for UK homes Manhattan recognises that our daily activities relating to products and services inevitably impact on the environment. As part of a continuing drive for quality in all areas of our business, we aim to minimise any harm that our business might generate.

The company, in setting out the environmental management system that adheres to the requirements of BS EN ISO 14001, gives a clear policy commitment to the following:

- Monitoring and continually improving the company's environmental performance through objectives and targets and the prevention of pollution;
- Meeting and where possible exceeding, all relevant regulatory and customer requirements and minimising adverse environmental affects that may occur as a result of our activities;
- Wherever practicable, using materials, components and designs that minimise the environmental impact, through production, whole life and final disposal;
- Taking our environmental responsibilities very seriously and working hard with our suppliers to ensure that all timber products are obtained from controlled and sustainable sources;
- Acquiring Chain of Custody certification accreditation to provide evidence that wood based products originate from certified, well-managed forests and verifies that these products are not mixed with materials from uncertified forests at any point in the supply chain;
- Minimising the use of all materials, supplies and energy and evaluating waste streams for re-use and recycling potential;
- Reviewing and updating this policy on a regular basis to ensure it reflects the company's progress in meeting these stated aims.

Sustainable development issues are becoming increasingly important to governments, customers and consumers, reflecting a desire for products to be manufactured responsibly. The government is actively encouraging sectors to develop this ethos and the furniture industry has embraced its own programme that Manhattan Furniture support fully.
